Difficulty

The Difficulty of Manaslu, Tsum Valley & Annapurna Circuit Trek

During Tsum Valley, Manaslu, and Annapurna Circuit Trek, you will trek through some of Nepal's problematic trekking routes. Furthermore, with this combination, the trek is very long. You must hike for 5-6 hours in challenging terrain and high altitude. So, it might get difficult for new trekkers with very little experience. In addition, when you travel through high altitudes, there is always a risk of high-altitude sickness. Besides, this sickness is common among high-altitude trekkers.

Our trip's highest altitude trek will be Larkya La Pass, 5,106 meters, and Thorong La Pass, 5,416 meters. This trek can be challenging for a rookie trekker because of its landscape and location. So, it would help if you trekked in some minor peaks before starting this trip. But, if you decide to trek here despite your lack of trekking experience, we highly recommend hiring a guide. Likewise, this trek is long, so your body is ready for this challenge.

Traveler Reviews

Manaslu & Annapurna Region Trek Was Joy From Start to Finish

Not many trekking companies provide us an opportunity to integrate two difficult treks into one single long itinerary but as the name calls 'Nepal alternative treks & expeditions' they were instrumental in this. This was challenging, strenuous and enduring high altitude trek. Including 1 porter and guide, we were team of 4 and had some great experience and time in greater Himalayas. Mr Tej Gurung, Managing Director was key in Planning this trek and based on our feedback, Organizing the trek itinerary with utmost precision was commendable. Response from him from initial stage of planning till we bid adieu at KTM was just professional & this shows his commitment for trekkers. Execution with high priority, focusing towards Safety & Quality is the responsible of ground team, which was well taken care by our Guide, Mr Nauser Gurung. His immense knowledge of routes & trails, weather condition, teahouses, water points are just meritorious. His helping & friendly attitude, adventure spirit and strive to keep us in comfort zone in tough situations is praiseworthy. And indeed he is a master of skill set required to execute such long duration trek. Our porter Deepak, was quick mover and one tough young chap. His movement on Ice and snow will keep anyone wonder how he could do it with such ease. This 30 days of trek, which is absolutely 1st class expedition, is a perfect challenge and getaway. Complete trek was of great value for money & excellent in every dimensions.

I would take this opportunity to thank Nepal alternative treks & expeditions for their efforts for keeping us safe, comfortable & happy throughout the trek & I highly recommend 'Nepal alternative treks & expeditions'. Can't wait to reunite and head for yet another high altitude 30+ days trek in Himalayas.
